G.O.P. Governor Candidate To Visit Here Today

Leading a "Caravan of Contrasts" in a 1908 Oldsmobile, Paul D. Bagwell, Republican candidate for governor of Michigan, will stop off this week to visit in Grayling on his way to attend the Mackinac Bridge Festival. And he has issued an open invitation to the entire citizenry to drop by and "just pass the time of day."

"This is just as good a time as any to answer any questions the people of Grayling may have," he said from his Lansing headquarters. "Perhaps it's time they had some answers about our government."

The vintage Oldsmobile symbolizes both Michigan's outdated constitution and the progress of the state's automobile industry.

The constitution under which Michigan operates is "outdated," according to Mr. Bagwell, "and the 83 amendments added to it in the last 50 years have compounded the felony of complexity and contradiction. There's a limit to the amount of repair work any structure can take without rebuilding."

"It has been said, for example, that of the 11 men who understand the school aid formulas 10 already are dead," he said. "This is but one of the sections of our present antiquated constitution which, like Topsy, has 'just grown' amendment on complex amendment."

The 44-year-old state Republican chief, already proved to be a tireless campaigner, filed petitions for governor last week. He is opposed in the primary contest for the office.

The caravan of contrasts, which includes a number of 1958 automobiles, is scheduled to leave Lansing at 11 a. m. Wednesday, arriving at Mackinac City for the bridge festival at noon Friday. More than 22 "get acquainted" stops are scheduled along the route.

The party will arrive in Grayling about 12:30 Thursday and will lunch here. The expected to leave for Gaylord about 2 p. m. with a stop scheduled at Frederic.

JACK PINE'S STUMP

This is the issue of the Avalanche in which, each year, I welcome the readers of this paper to the "Stump" column. It is a place where we can discuss the various changes which have taken place while they were gone.

Summers residents who subscribe to the "Stump" column, so the column is wasted on them. Anyway, since it is late at night, I have no intention of going through the usual routine of writing a column.

But to a reader who would like to see what I have to say, I'd be up all night. Several changes like the Bowhunter's Building and the new Sportsman's Club building, are always worthy of mention.

Rd. Comm. Drops Snow Plowing Of Private Drives

In a letter being dispatched this week to over 280 users of snow plowing on private roads, the Crawford County road commission is advising that the practice is being dropped.

For the past several years, the Commission has plowed private roads and driveways at a small fee and it was because no private firm or individual operator was available to perform such a service.

Now the practice is, as was the digging of basements several years ago, being halted as it is felt that it is an encroachment on the rights of private contractors. The Road Commission as an governmental agency doesn't wish to compete with private enterprise.

It was said and it was also pointed out that the practice is against public policy and state laws governing the operation of the Commission. Crawford County was the only county in 33 still left doing private road clearing. County Road Superintendent Bruce Carlson stated.

Several local contractors have shown an interest in doing this snow removal job providing the Road Commission would not be in competition with them. Therefore the Commission immediately took the step to bow out of the snow removal project on private roads and driveways.

It was understood that at least one of the contractors interested in doing snow removal work on private roads will send a letter to the list of over 280 who contracted last season for snow removal with the County Road Commission.

The action by the Commission to halt the practice was taken on June 17 in a Commission meeting after a joint session with the County Board of Supervisors.

Smiggen's Moves Into Sole Lead In Crawford County Softball League

Three Teams Tie For Second Spot

By John Schofield Jr.

Smiggen's, with victories over the DeCaires and Chevrolet last week, gained sole possession of first place in the Crawford County softball league. Millikin, Chevrolet, and Kelsey are all tied for second place, one half game behind the pace-setters. Bear Archery lost twice to even their record at 2-2. Ausable Souvenir DeCaires have yet to win in first game.

On last Monday night's single game Millikin Construction came up with 17 runs in the last two innings to easily down Ausable Souvenir by a score of 20-2. Bob Horning went three for three at the plate to pace the win. Clem Sadjac had two singles for the Frederic team. Jack Millikin, who has been hitting like a hot bat, hit a long homer over the right field fence in the last inning.

In another last-sided win, Smiggen's downed DeCaires, 19-2, on a four hitter by Jerry Korhonen. Clyde Weiss had four hits and Leo Schofield threw a three-hitter for the Smiggen's. DeCaires' shortstop first baseman suffered a severe pulled muscle and was removed to Mercy Hospital. It is reported that the injury is not of a serious nature. However, it is probably the most serious since league play began on the new field.

In one of the tightest battles to date, Chevrolet and Bear Archery went nine innings with the former winning by a score of 3-2. John Schofield threw a three-hitter for the winners and Howie Hatfield a five-hitter for Bear. The score was 1-1 for eight innings, with the Bears getting one run in the top of the ninth and the Chevys two in the last half. Schofield, with two singles was the only man to get more than one hit for either team.

On Thursday night Bear Archery lost their second straight game after winning the first two. This time it was at the hands of Millikin Construction by a score of 11-3. Bob Gildner was the winning pitcher on a five hitter. Gildner also had four for five at the plate with a home run and a triple. Bob Smoak got a pair of singles for the Bears.

In the first game on Friday night, Kelsey turned in the first shut-out on a combined pitch. The DeLong brothers, as they downed Ausable Souvenir 8-0. Ausable's only hit was a single by Dick Ebert. Kelsey got only four hits off Jack Smith the Frederic pitcher.

In the final game of the week, Smiggen's came back after to nip Chevrolet by a score of 6-5, after trailing 5-2 in a high spirited game that was nip and tuck all the way. Jerry Korhonen limited the losers to four hits in winning his third game against no defeats. Bill Hall and Clyde Weiss had three hits apiece and Jerry White a home run for Smiggen's. Irving McIsaac got two singles for Chevrolet.

This week's games should provide some real thrills with Kelsey and Chevrolet, both with 2-1 records clashing on Friday night. On Tuesday, July first one of the west double headers of the season will take place, with Smiggen's meeting Bear Archery and Kelsey tangling with Millikin.

Anti-American Feeling . . .

The violent attacks made against Vice President Nixon during his South American tour came as a prod and shock to the American people. They happened at our doorstep. And they were symptomatic of anti-American feeling which has found ominous expression in many corners of the world — Africa, the Middle East, Europe.

Just how deep is the "hate-America" emotion — and what are its causes? Newsweek addressed that question to its correspondents around the world. And the replies are summed up in its issue of May 26.

First of all, there is an almost incredible amount of ignorance about this country abroad. As Newsweek says: "Millions, especially in Asia, are convinced that most Americans are rich beyond an opium addict's dream. . . . Many think that Negroes still exist in a slave state in this country — and that is extremely important in a world in which two-thirds of all the people belong to colored races. Great numbers have been sold the idea that American business is imperialistic and is interested only in ruthless exploitation."

Much of the existing anti-Americanism stems from circumstances beyond our control. The fact that we are rich and powerful breeds envy. Moreover, as the magazine puts it: " . . . much of the free world is beset by controversies of such magnitude that any position the U. S. takes on any of them is certain to displease millions of people somewhere."

There is, in some circles, the distrust of American leadership — a feeling that it has grown flabby and indecisive. In this area a dilemma of an extremely tough nature has arisen. Newsweek says: "On one hand, even our friends think that the deployment of H-bombs and missile bases smacks of saber-rattling. On the other, there is a growing apprehension . . . that we are not strong enough to meet the Soviets in a showdown."

Other influences beside controversial matters of high policy have contributed to distorted views of America abroad. One is the American motion picture — our movies account for 60 per cent of the whole world's screen time. Foreign viewers tend to take everything they see at face value — and fantasies thus become fact in their minds.

On the other hand, American artistic emissaries we have sent abroad have been eminently successful creators of good will. As an example, a Manila newspaper said that the visit of Marian Anderson, the great Negro contralto, did more to ease tensions than " . . . hundreds of tons of agricultural surpluses."

What is the answer to the anti-Americanism problem? Newsweek offers one, in three-faceted form. First, the magazine says, we need a more far-sighted foreign policy, that will deal with troubles before they reach the crises stage. Second, both government and private individuals should more carefully consider the implications of what we say and do. Third, there should be a more convincing formula which will dramatize what America is really like. Then Newsweek adds one more thought: "Something else that Americans need to do about their image is to relax about it and come to terms with the idea that, in a world seething with discontent, we can't expect everyone to like us."

The new elevated waterworks tank is finished and it looks like a fine job. Few, except those who watched the progress of construction, know the task and skill that such a job requires. A horse belonging to George Langevin and driven by Mr. Shirts became mired in a ditch in the swamp road east of town last Monday night. The road is narrow and in trying to turn around in a small space one horse slipped into the mire with only its head and shoulders sticking out. Mr. Langevin was called and hastened out but his team wasn't heavy enough to drag the animal out. It finally required the work of six men and a team to pull the horse out of the mire and it was 3 o'clock next morning before they reached their respective homes.

Grant Shaw is building a fine new home on Michigan Avenue. One day last week while he and his son Walter were painting from a scaffold, it broke, letting them both to the ground. In the rapid transit, Mr. Shaw poured a large can of paint over his son and likewise Walter poured a gallon of shellac over his father. They are none the worse for the fall except that Mrs. Shaw had to go down town for a gallon of gasoline with which to clean up the would-be painters.
